Connecting Homeowners in Mexico
with Reliable House and Pet Sitters

What Is House Sitting?

House sitting is typically a no-cash-exchanged relationship in which a sitter receives a place to stay in exchange for occupying the house and providing pet care while the owner is away.

Other responsibilities may be included as needed.

Why Would Someone Be a House Sitter?

Living in a real home allows a visitor the authentic experience of living in Mexico. Many sitters are exploring options for retirement. Other sitters are "remote workers" using the Internet while traveling the world.

Many are already residents of Mexico, using their membership to both find a sitter and be one. It gives them an opportunity to visit another part of Mexico and have a free place to stay.

Why Should You Want a House Sitter?

Pet care is the most common reason to have a sitter.

Pets are happier and healthier at home. Security is the second most mentioned concern. An unoccupied home is more of a target for potential robberies. Home maintenance and emergency response, such as gardening or tending a broken pipe, are also reasons to have a house sitter.
